COMMERCE CAPITAL GROUP COMPLETES THE SALE OF THE ALARIS GROUP TO PARSONS

Commerce Capital Group Serves as Exclusive Financial Advisor to The Alaris Group, LLC

SAN FRANCISCO, CA (April 26, 2005) – Parsons announced today the acquisition of The Alaris Group, LLC, a leading provider of outsourced wireless telecommunications site development services in the western United States. Alaris, a San Francisco, California-based firm with approximately 100 employees, will join Parsons Commercial Technology Group (PARCOMM), a unit of Parsons Corporation. Commerce Capital Group served as the exclusive financial advisor to Alaris.

The Alaris acquisition augments Parsons strong position in the telecommunications market. Parsons has been ranked #1 in Telecommunications Design for five consecutive years by Engineering News-Record. Alaris' range of wireless development and consulting services include site identification and acquisition, zoning, land use permitting, construction management, architecture and engineering management, in-house collocation services, site modification and NEPA environmental compliance services. Alaris brings to Parsons excellent wireless carrier customer relationships, particularly within the San Francisco, Seattle, Portland, and Southern California markets.

“Alaris has a great reputation in the wireless market for their ability to successfully complete the site acquisition process for their customers in a time-sensitive manner and is consistent with our strategic focus in this technology market,” says Chuck Harrington, President, Parsons Commercial Technology Group. “We are very pleased that Amy Stanton, Bruce Morrison and the entire Alaris Group have joined the Parsons team.”

“This acquisition will allow Alaris to expand our role in the wireless telecommunications industry, providing greater value and resources to our clients, and growth opportunities for our staff,” adds Amy Stanton, founding owner and Principal of The Alaris Group.
